(b) You will be responsible for storage (after the complimentary 60 days), re-delivery, and maintenance fees if You are unable to receive delivery.

(c) The hood will be delivered to a smooth, flat, non-gravel outside surface or garage space, but not transported inside the house. - (iii) Art Culinaire's Installation Network is a nationwide group of vendors who have provided installation services for the Lacanche brand. It is our goal to source and maintain a high-quality list of vendors should our Lacanche owners ever need services. However, we are unable to always keep comprehensive checks of these companies in place, so it is highly recommended that due diligence is performed prior to contracting any service. The vendor list and subsequent referrals are simply a courtesy. Any agreements made or work performed is between the vendor and contracting party. Art Culinaire does not assume responsibility for providing or coordinating the installation of your hood.

(e) You acknowledge and agree that installations that do not follow these indications will be considered improper under these Terms and Conditions and that Art Culinaire may deny Your warranty claim because of that.

You agree that the resulting arbitral awards or decisions will be binding and enforceable.
